

ROA's Public Policy Portfolio: 118th Congress second session

Objectives:

ROA's public policy portfolio for the second session of the 118th Congress will help transition American military readiness into the decisive decade by:

- 1) Ensuring the transition from a strategic to an operational reserve is reinforced by modernized law, policy, and execution.
- 2) Ensuring seamless transitions for component interoperability.
- 3) Ensuring seamless transitions for capability interoperability.
- 4) Eliminating discontinuities in transitions between health care plans for Reserve and National Guard service members, their survivors, and "gray area" retirees.
- 5) Improving transitions between military and civilian life for Reserve and National Guard service members, military families, and veterans of the reserve force.

Portfolio:

Ensure the transition from a strategic to an operational reserve is reinforced by modernized law, policy, and benefits:

- Establish a White House Commission to examine national defense requirements.
- Enact duty status reform.
- Define "operational reserve."
- Include the reserve components in the National Defense Strategy.
- Support S.2297, the Parity for Public Health Service Ready Reserve Act.
- Support S.2590, the PHS COR Act.

Ensure seamless transitions for component and capability interoperability:

- Promote a personnel system and equipment capability that enables seamless transition between components and across services.
- Monitor the modernized Space Force personnel management model.
- Fully fund the National Guard and Reserve Equipment Account.
- Adequately equip each reserve component.

Eliminate discontinuities in transitions between health care plans for Reserve and National Guard service members and "gray area" retirees.

- Support 24/7/365 government-provided, military-grade health care: H.R.4221, the Healthcare for Our Troops Act.
- Support H.R.3668/S.1670, the TRICARE Fairness for National Guard and Reserve Retirees Act.

Improve transitions between military and civilian life for Reserve and National Guard service members, military families, and Americans:

- Support ROA's draft Delivering Reservist Integration and Veterans Education Act.
- Support ROA's draft Replenishing the Ranks Act.
- Support H.R.5844, the Savings for Servicemembers Act.
- Support H.R.3943, the Servicemember Employment Protection Act.
- Support H.R.3253, the Reservist Pay Equity Act.
- Support H.R.4244/S.2076, the Servicemember Enrollment and Readmission for Valuable Education Act.
- Support H.R.4328, the National Nursing Shortage Task Force Act.
- Champion ROA's version of universal military training.

For contact: Matthew Schwartzman, mschwartzman@roa.org

About ROA:

Since 1922, the Reserve Officers Association, now doing business as the Reserve Organization of America to reflect an all-ranks membership, has relentlessly advocated to ensure the reserve components are strong and ready and reserve component service members and their families are well cared for.

The founders of ROA, veterans of World War I led by General of the Armies John J. "Black Jack" Pershing, believed complacency and isolationism would leave America vulnerable to military unpreparedness.

As the political and national security context has changed over the past century, ROA has stayed committed to its original mission, then stated as "... to support and assist in the development and execution of a military policy for which the United States shall provide adequate National Defense."

ROA's vital role in national security and ensuring military readiness is well documented and was formally recognized in the 117th Congress by the U.S. Senate with the unanimous passage of S.Res. 820, A resolution honoring the 100th anniversary of the Reserve Officers Association, now known as the Reserve Organization of America.

The Reserve and National Guard now function as a strategic and operational reserve, essential and integral to the ability of our military to do its job. They must be funded, trained, and equipped accordingly.

ROA believes military readiness requires reserve component personnel and equipment capabilities that achieve interoperability with the active component.

ROA's public policy portfolio for the second session of the 118th Congress focuses on the criticality of ensuring American military superiority transitions into the next decade.

Inquiries can be directed to ROA's legislation and military policy director, Matthew Schwartzman (mschwartzman@roa.org) and director of operations, Trey Criner (tcriner@roa.org).